Railway season tickets are issued within a 150 km radius only and can be purchased for shorter distances using second-class fares equivalent to 15 single journeys. First-class season ticket holders must travel in the designated class, with some exceptions on specific sections where first-class service is not available. Any holder of a season ticket, including children, agrees to abide by the rules and regulations and will not engage in any antisocial activities or commit offenses under Indian law while using their season ticket. Failure to comply may result in cancellation of the ticket. Key aspects of seasonal tickets include: - Suburban and non-suburban sections are both covered. - Fares for second-class tickets equate to 15 single journeys, while first-class fares are four times that amount. - Children's tickets cost half the adult fare. - Quarterly season tickets are charged at 2.7 times the normal rate. - Tickets can only be issued once per passenger for travel between their residence and work/study destinations. - First-class passengers must travel in designated class seats, with some exceptions on specific sections where AC chair cars may be attached for exclusive use. However, they can be issued on certain sections where they were previously issued prior to 1951, except those that have been withdrawn due to lack of demand. Identity Card A photo Identity Card with a plastic cover is issued to season ticket holders at a nominal cost of Re. 1. The Identity Card remains valid for 5 years or until it gets defaced/mutilated, whichever comes first. It must contain the holder's name, address, age, sex, and signature. The Identity Card Number should be written on the Season Ticket, and it is mandatory to produce the card along with the season ticket to avoid invalidation. The passenger's details must be accurately entered on the Identity Card, and their photograph should be firmly pasted thereon. Additional accepted documents for identity proof include Pan Card, Passport, Driving Licence, Voter Identity Card, and Credit Card issued by any government or government agency in India. The serial number of these documents should be written on the season ticket. Season Ticket Validity Period Season tickets are not valid for travel in reserved coaches and trains but are valid for passenger trains. However, their validity is restricted to a specific train unless permitted by Railway Administration. First-class season ticket holders can travel in first-class coaches during daytime only, subject to distance restrictions applicable on the concerned train. Indian Railway Season Tickets are renewed 10 days before their expiry date. However, this renewal extends only until the original expiry date and does not change the initial validity period. - Super Fast Surcharge Ticket: This ticket allows passengers to travel in unreserved coaches of Superfast trains with an advance purchase requirement for each journey. - Season Ticket Refund Rules: No refund is given on unused or partially used season tickets under any circumstances. - Student Season Tickets: - For students, First & Second class season tickets are issued up to a maximum distance of 150 Kms. - Student monthly season tickets cost half the normal adult fare, and quarterly season tickets cost 2.7 times the student MST fare. - Season Tickets for Students (Scheduled Castes/Tribes): These students receive reduced fare MSTs at 50% of the normal Student MST fares or QSTs at 2.7 times the concessional fares. - Free Monthly Season Ticket to School Students: Boy students up to the 10th standard and girl students up to the 12th standard are eligible for free MSTs, subject to conditions including a maximum distance of 150 Kms. Note: The text provided is already in a clear format, so I paraphrased it slightly to match the requested style. Here's a rewritten version of the text: To clarify, MSTs (Mail/Express train) tickets are not valid for travel on superfast trains. Additionally, no other surcharge is applicable for these free MSTs, including the CIDCO surcharge for specific routes in Mumbai. Concessional student MSTs and QSTs can still be issued upon request. To book paperless unreserved journey tickets, season tickets, or platform tickets, you'll need to download the mobile app from Google Play Store or Windows Store. After registering with your mobile number, name, city, train type, class, ticket type, passenger count, and frequent travel routes, make a payment using R-Wallet. Upon successful registration, an R-Wallet will be created with zero balance. You can top up the wallet by paying cash at designated counters or online through "utsonmobile.indianrail.gov.in". For single journey tickets and platform tickets, your smartphone must have GPS enabled. Simply choose the appropriate option in the app to book your ticket.
